DemonstratingUnita year agoForetellingTablea year agoDIY enthusiasts, grab your crafting tools! To make a Pokemon card sleeve out of paper, you'll want to start with a piece of paper that's at least 6.5 inches by 4.75 inches. This size ensures a snug fit for your standard Pokemon card. Fold the paper in half lengthwise, then tape the sides securely, leaving the top open to slide your card in. Voila, youve got yourself a homemade card sleeve! Jazz it up with some drawings or stickers for that personal touch.Play Games.Earn points.Get gift cards!Playback Rewards(13.7k)500k players and counting...ReroutingTopaza year agol tried making paper sleeves once and theyre pretty cool for a DIY project! Just make sure to use thicker paper or cardstock for extra durability. Adding a layer of clear tape over the whole sleeve can give it some extra protection against wear and tea.CiuingWeara year agoHonesty, just buy card sleeves. Paper won't protect your cards from spills or bends like plastic sleeves do. Plus, they're super affordable.Playback Rewards - a great rewards app for your favorite brandsDiego3 hours agolf you're a Pokemon TCG player, you need to download the Playbite app!Playbite is like an arcade in your phone: you get to play all kinds of fun and simple games, compete with friends and others, and win cool prizes from all your favorite brands!One of those prizes is a pack of Pokemon cards, which you can win and get sent to you essentially for free!In case youre wondering, this is how it works:Playbite makes money from (not super annoying) ads and (totally optional) in-app purchases. You'll need some clear plastic sheets - think something like document protectors but thicker for durability. Measure and cut them to the size of your Pokemon cards. Then, you can either sew the sides with a sewing machine (if the plastic is sewable) or use strong, clear adhesive to seal the edges. Make sure to leave the top open so you can slide your card in. For an extra touch, you can even print your favorite Pokemon designs on sticker paper, cut them out, and decorate the front of your sleeves. Just make sure the stickers are on the outside to keep the sleeve's surface smooth.Play Games.Earn points.Get gift cards!Playback Rewards(13.7k)500k players and counting...CarryingMontea year agoHonestly, why bother making them when you can just buy them? There are loads of awesome designs out there, and they're not that expensive. Saves you the hassle and you know they'll protect your cards properly.CreatingGulfa year agoI made my own sleeves once using laminate sheets and an iron. I printed some cool designs on paper, put them inside the laminate sheets, and then carefully ironed the edges to seal them. Slid my cards in before sealing the top. Worked out pretty well, but it was a bit of a hassle. Would probably just buy them next time for the convenience.Playback Rewards - a great rewards app for your favorite brandsDiego3 hours agolf you're a Pokemon TCG player, you need to download the Playbite app!Playbite is like an arcade in your phone: you get to play all kinds of fun and simple games, compete with friends and others, and win cool prizes from all your favorite brands!One of those prizes is a pack of Pokemon cards, which you can win and get sent to you essentially for free!In case youre wondering, this is how it works:Playbite makes money from (not super annoying) ads and (totally optional) in-app purchases. RulerPencilConstruction paperGlueScissorsMarkersStickers A card sleeve can keep your cards neatly together. Card sleeves are ideal for people who are card collectors, avid card players and entrepreneurs who often hand out business cards. By making a personalized card sleeve, you can keep your cards or those you collect from others neatly organized. Measure the length, width and height of the deck of cards. Draw a rectangle on the construction paper with the length and width of the card sleeve using a pencil. Below the rectangle along one of the width lines, connect a rectangle that measures the width and height. To this rectangle, connect an identical rectangle of the first square measuring the length and width. Add two additional rectangles to the last rectangle in the three-in-a-row rectangles. The two rectangles should be on each side, connected to the length sides. These two rectangles should measure the length and the height, plus an additional half inch. Cut out the figure following the outside border of the rectangles. All of the rectangles should stick together. Fold each of the lines that are left on the figure after cutting it out. The folds should create a card sleeve with an additional half-inch on each side. Decorate the outside of the card sleeve using markers and stickers. Apply glue to the two half-inch sides and fold the card sleeve, so the two glued sides are on the inside of the card sleeve. If the card sleeve is flat, apply pressure to the card sleeve. If the card sleeve is high, stick a few fingers into the card sleeve and a few fingers on the outside of the card sleeve and apply pressure to ensure the glue has dried. 27 This is a quick and easy way to make card sleeves all you need is plastic wrap and tape.Also your favorite card.Take the plastic wrap and wrap it around the card then tape the plastic wrap to the card there u have card sleeve.If u drop the card nothing will happen to it.Thats my way to make a homemade card sleeve. Well, that's partially true. We also always utilize frames on all our Brushed Art sleeves. But you never know... the forge dragons are always tinkering with the sleeves to improve them - they may switch it up some day.Why is there a D symbol on the bottom of my sleeve design?Sadly, the D does not stand for Dragon Shield. But it may stand for Definitely. As in, your customized sleeves are definitely going to be identical to each other. In order to ensure tournament-level sleeves with complete precision, our printers use the symbol to create the most top-notch sleeves for you. All our Art sleeves feature a printing-precision mark, carefully designed by our sneaky dragons to be difficult to spot to the mortal eye. And the keen observer might already have recognized it as something else; it's actually in the shape of a tiny Dragon Shield logo!Can I get Sleeve Crafter sleeves in Matte?At this time, customized sleeves are available as Brushed Art sleeves. Keep an eye on our social media - you never know what the dragons in the forge are working on.What kind of artwork can I choose for my sleeves?You can upload your original artwork or photos to create your customized sleeves. The forge is a space for creating personalized sleeves suitable to the community and the game we all love to play. All sleeves must be PG-13, and we reserve the right to refuse to print sleeves that violate copyrights.Are Sleeve Crafter sleeves the same quality as other Dragon Shield sleeves?Of course! Our Sleeve Crafter sleeves the same texture and type as our Brushed Art sleeves. And just like the Brushed Art sleeves, your artwork or photo is printed directly onto the sleeve so they do not peel or split. The sleeves have a lightly textured back, ensuring a smooth shuffle experience.
