can i upload a logo? i used to use the MLB and MLB uniforms so this is my first time creating my own Inside Diamond Dynasty...go to Home...Customize...Logo Editor... Create your logos...save your logos...exit out of DD... Go to Create (in upper left corner of main menu screen)...go to Vaults...press the Vault Options menu button...click on Upload... you just uploaded a logo to the MLB The Show 25 vault...congratulations! He means upload a logo to the game, not design one. Not sure this is possible. They need to completely revamp the uniform/logo customization piece of this game. If they made it more like Madden where you could upload sag files it would improve the game significantly. Been offering us the same, [censored] fonts and designs for 10 years. @th420 PSN I did say how to upload...that comes after the create (my third line). One cannot upload from a computer, everything is done from the console...so one has to first create on the console, then upload from the console to the vault before one can use the created logos. For one to use the created logos, one has to upload from the console to the vault and not show up in gameplay. One cannot upload without first creating the logo, ya you can't upload from a computer in this game. every other game uses a web UI so you can create logos/uniforms but MLB The Show has the same old game creator program from 1989 @dop1234567890 PSN I understand. The uniform builder in The Show is a dinosaur. They need to get with the times and allow users to upload svg files like in CFB25 and Madden 25. Considering some of the vile creations made with the logo editor as is, I'm OK with not being able to upload images. @MarinerMat01 PSN said on uploading uniforms that you can't upload uniforms but other games can in 2025 when the website don't let you upload as many logos like MLB The Show really don't want to catch the hell from the NFL for the very good reason that the NFL has a trademark on the uniform logo and they can sue you for registering to share the same way countless other past parties are used, as is mounted - as decorated - as displayed - as decided - as agreed - as to be missing - as a missing "was"? That depends on the sentence, and how this phrase is used in the sentence. Hi everyone! When you discuss a show that you've seen or say "I should you use the show or not" for example. So basically we can say either "as shown - as is shown", "as known - as is known", "as mentioned - as is mentioned", "show book, mention" are all verbs. Each has a subject (who is showing?), a direct object (what are they showing?) and an indirect object (who are they showing it to?). Sometimes you can omit 1 or more of these 3 things, but all 3 are implied. Even in sentences where we call "shown" an adjective (to match "grammar rules") it still has the same meaning: someone is showing something to someone. There are many different ways to re-arrange these 3 nouns, often omitting some of them. Birds can fly, as is shown, by (the author to the reader) in picture 1. Birds can fly, as shown (by the author to the reader) by picture 1. Birds can fly, as shown (to the reader) by picture 1. Birds can fly, as I show you in picture 1. In picture 1, I show you that birds can fly. Picture 1 shows a bird flying (to the reader). Hi, may I add a question here? It is relevant to this thread. Can you please tell me why 4 doesn't work? 1. as is shown = as shown 2. as is known = as known 3. as is mentioned = as mentioned but 4. as is expected (x), as expected (o) (source) Thank you! A. In your link, Parla says that "gets bigger" is wrong, not that "as is expected" is wrong. B. "As expected" means "as was expected", which means "as (someone) expected". But you need to consider the verb's subject for this phrase to make sense. 1. as is shown in the picture 2. as is known by who? who knows this? 3. as is mentioned in the text shown here 4. as was expected by who? who expected this? It is meaningless to say "as was expected" or "as is known" unless you tell us who knows this, or who expected this. Last edited: Dec 2, 2024.
