Creating a new survey is easy: Go to . Tap + NEW SURVEY. In step 1 (Write questions), pick the right question types and write your questions. Click CONFIRM. In step 2 (Pick audience), name your survey and choose your target group. Click CONTINUE. In step 3 (Confirm survey), check your questions and buy responses. You can also change how often the survey is sent. Click BUY NOW or START TEST* if your survey has screening questions. Your survey goes to our team for review, and you get a confirmation email when it starts. Another email with a link to your results comes after the survey ends. You can see results once approved and data is processed, usually in hours. *If you use screening questions, an audience test is needed with a minimum 5% response rate. Survey creation FAQs Expand all Collapse all How can I target the right audience with my survey questions? When Google Surveys gathers responses from the general-Internet audience, it uses published Internet-population data for the target distribution. For example, when targeting the United States, the CPS Internet Supplement is used. For details, see our methodology. Note that audience incomes are the median of the areas surveyed. You can target questions based on inferred demographics (age, gender, or geography) from step 1. For custom audiences like dog owners or golf players, use screening questions to filter responses. This way, respondents can focus on each question and give better answers.
